March was a pretty calm month around here ~ so laid back that I didn't even make many entries in my diary.

Matthew: Nice job on the mailing. I appreciate your getting it out even though you had lots going on simultaneously. Is that really true about how one places a date on Easter? Sounds like a pagan festival all right.

Jerry: I suppose Nita's gizmo is great, but I don't even know what a PDA is, so let's not go there. However, I did buy a 750 GB hard drive and (apparently) installed it correctly. Got to get a lot of MP3 files together in one place so I can transfer them to CDs neatly. I finally have so much music that there is not much left to download! // Be careful of "that terrible lethargy" ~ that's one of the signs of depression. // I do so wonder at your knowledge of what is going on in the television world. It would seem that you must lose all your free time to it. I actually counted my hours at the tv for March: four hours total. But you may be right, for I don't feel like I have much free time either.

Bob: As you know, there was a second fleet kept in near readiness for action ~ it was moored in Suisun Bay, not far from Pittsburg, California, where I was raised. We used to sneak over now and again and climb aboard as curious teens. They were just there rusting; I was surprised to learn of your fleet and further surprised that the government found some use for the boats. Good-Oh.

Matthew: Nice explanation of what you do. I also enjoyed the sense of humor (and futility) you expressed in "Maybe it isn't tech..." Pretty interesting stuff.
